OUR NATURAL GAS SUPPLY

AWAKENING A KEEN INTEREST IN SCIENTIFIC CIRCLES.

It was First Used at Fredonia, New York, More than Sixty Years Ago-Where it May and May Not Be Found-What Professor Leslie Says on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, May 7 .- The recent discoveries of natural gas, and the practical uses to which it is being put in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentneky, is awakening a keen interest in scientific circles here, and the reports from those competent to report upon the subject are looked for with a great deal of interest. The subject is new being carefully studied by experts, and before many menths the geological survey expects to have some new and valuable information ou the subject.

What will be the extent, duration and practical value of the gas producing field is a subject of great interest. Add, it may as well be admitted, it is a subject about which the geologists and scientific people generally know very little as yet. Where it comes from, where and how it was formed, whether its production is yet going on down in 'nature's great laboratory, how long it is going to last, under what parts of the country and the surface of the earth generally it is found, all are subjects of great uncertainty and grave concern. It is a curious fact, too, that in the very sections and cities where natural gas is to-day so abundant and creating so much excitement, its existence has been known for many years and been utilized in a quiet way for a decade, or quarter of a contury, or even longer. In Findlay, O., natural gas has been known to exist since its settle-ment, and was met with in diggling cells re and wells, and found in springs and rock crevices. In 1835, almost a full half century ago, it was utilized in a small way for lighting a residence or two in the village, and has been so utilized ever since.

The earliest use of natural gas for practical purposes in this country is that at Fredenia, N. Y., where natural gas was found escaping from rock crevices and springs when the Holiand land company made its survey. 'In 1821 a well was sunk to the depth of twentyseven feet, for the purpose of gathering seme of this escaping gas, and was utilized with iron pipes with small holes at the side for its escape. Burned in this way it made a flame "about equal to two candies." By i824, the date of Layfette's visit, the enterprise had progressed so far that the town was lighted with natural gas en the occasion of his visit. Probably the first reported discovery of natural gas was in the Kanawha valley, where it is just now, a century later, being rediscovered.

The earliest explerers of the Kanawha valley found "marsh gas," the modern natural gas, issuing from springs, and it is related that Washington, in locating lands deeded him for his military services, found, a "burning spring," which he proposed to deed for public uses, but which, through some in-fermality, was never completed. Nearly a half century ago natural gas was used for boiling salt in the Kanawha Valley. In Iilinois, where the gas excitement has blazed up so vigorously of late, there have been natural gas wells for over thirty years, the first having been utilized as early is 1855. The latest work on the subject, by the geological survey, says: "In general, it may be said that natural gas is found in varying quanties all through the territory from the Hudson river on the east to California en the west. In New York, Pennsylvania, West Vinginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ambama, Louisiana, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Colorade, Dakota, Utah, Wyoming and California its existence is reported."

Where can it be found in paying quantities! Ah, that is another question. This same work, discussing this same question, remarks that it is almost impossible to put down the drill anywhere in the state of Ohio without finding natural gas in greater or less quantities, but adds: "Outside of the localities in which the Berea grit and Trenton limestone have been found the gas is pro-duced in very small quantities. Perhaps the most suggestive and instructive statement in regard to "surface indications" is that made by Professor Leslie touching Pennsylvania. In answer to the quantien: "Shall I bore for gas at my works? he says:

"First of all—There can be no gas stored up in the oldest rocks. This settles the question in the negative for the whole southeast ern third of Pennsylvania. To bore for gas in Bucks, Philadelphia, Delaware counties, would be simply abourd." "Second-There can be no gas left under ground where the old rocks have been turned up on edge and overturned, fractured and recemented, faulted and disturbed in a thousand ways. If there ever was any, it has long since, found innumerable ways of escape into the atmosphere. This settles the question for all the counties of the great valley, as anyone can see by looking at the present condition of their limestons, slate and sandstone formations.

"Third-There is not the least chance that any gas is left under ground in the greatly feided, crushed and hardened formations of the middle belt of the state. Where the oil and gas rocks rise to the surface in these counties they show that all their oil and gas

. Where the rock formations lie approximately horizonal and have remained nearly undisturbed ever extensive areas, in all the counties west of the Alleghanies, there is always a chance of finding gas, if not oil, at some depth beneath the surface, determined by the particular formation which appears at the surface.

"Fifth—Wherever the bituminous coal beds have been changed into anthracite or semi-bitanthrous coul it is reasonable to suppose that the same agency which produced the change, whatever it was, must have acted on the whole column of formations, including any possible gas rock at any depth. "Sixth-Wherever rock olf has been found there and in the surrounding region rock gas is sure to exist." CINCINNATI, May 7 .- Richard Hellman aged twenty-eight, living with his wife and three children at 1813 Spring street, Covington, was fatally injured internally by falling from the third story of a new building on Court strest, near Walnut, last evening. He was taken to the city hospital.

to Succeed Senator Camilen. CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 7.—Charles James Fanikner, of Martinsburg, has been elected United States senator to succeed Senstor Camden. He recaived forty-eight votes. Judge Faulkner is a sea of the late Charles James Faulkner, who represented Virginia and West Virginia in the congress of the United States before the late war, and served as minister to France under the administra-tion of President Buchanan. The senatorelect was born in Martinsburg, Berkely county, West Virginia, where he liew resides, and is about forty years of age and in full vigor of minhood. He is a lawyer by profession. profession.

He was elected judge of the Thirteenth judicial circuit, comprising Berkely, Jefferson and Morgan countles, this state, and has held the office up to this time. 'He is conside ered one of the ablest judges in the state, and is universally popniar with all classes. Mr. Fauikner is not wealthy, but has a comfertable home, and is in fair circumstances. He has held aloof from all factional fights in his party, never having been mixed up in any coal oil and railroad monepolistic schemes. He is truly a pure man in all actions and a hard worker in his profession. He graduated in the law school of the University of Virginia in 1867, and carried off the prizes in his class.

Senator Lucas, Governer Wilson's ap-pointee from West Virginia, will contest Judge Faulkner's right to the seat, helding the legislature was not authorized to elect a senator at its extra session. Senator Sherman says Lucas' point is a new one, but is upheld by West Virginia's constitution.

Freaks of an Insane Woman.

Boston, May 7 .- Willie Joyce, six years old, was killed a few days ago on the track of the Boston & Previdence road, near his home, in the Highland district. The bereavement drove the lad's mother almost insane. Yesterday afternoon she collected a large bag of stones and carried them to the railroad just before the train which had killed her boy was due. She took her stand in the middle of the track, and when the train came in sight she began waiting, waving her arms around in the air and cry-ing: "Oh, God! My Willie." The engineer whistled sharply, and then, seeing that no heed was paid to the warning, he reversed the lever and stopped the train just before it reached her. In the meantime the woman had falien in a dead faint directly across the track. She was carried away, and when restored to consciousness she said she had gone to the track to stone the train which had killed her boy.

Sale of the Chattaroi Road.

The Chattaroi Road, extending from Ashland to Richardson, Ky., was sold Thursday at foreclosure sale at the United States courthouse door, Covington. The road, which is only fifty miles in length, is destined to form a link in the proposed Charleston, Cincinnati and Chicago Road which is to extend from Charleston, South Carolina, to a connection with the Maysville and Big Sandy at Ashland, Ky. At Thursday's sale the property was knocked down to George C. Wood, who represents the bondholders. The price paid was $780,000, for which amount the road, all lands owned by the company, slx locomotives, twenty-six boxcars, and 113 coal and platform and six passenger cars were secured. Under the terms of the sale the purchaser was required to pay $50,000 in cash Thursday, and deposit one hundred of the first mortgage bonds with Special Master Northup, who conducted the sales. John Carlisle and several other Cincinnatians are interested in the property, and will put it ln the new Charleston, Cincinnati and Chicago Company. Work is now progressing on the C., C. and C., and it is expected the entire line will be completed and in operation within three years.

"Nip't in the Bud!"

Sad to say, many a good thing attains to nothing more than a fair beginning. On the other hand it is a matter for congratulation that the growth of some evil things may be also promptly frustrated. A large proportion of the cases of the most wide-spread and fatal of diseasesconsumption have their inception in nasal catarrh. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is pleasant, soothing and effectual. Try it. It has cured thousands. All druggists.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR NOTES.

It is a matter of great wonderment to working people why it is that so many merchanis and dealers who depend on the local patronage of the toilers for ninetenths of their business are not more generally in sympathy with the efforts of organized labor to better its condition and increase wages. Working men and women buy their food and raiment at home as a matter of necessity, while the wealthy and aristocratic nabobs are so high-toned that they do not encourage home enterprise, but go or send to Cinicinnati to trade, which is of no earthly benefit to home merchants. Occasionally these parsimonious individuals, who pride themselves on their fat bellies and large bank accounts, will buy a pound of tes or an ounce of allspice of the home dealer, when their supply runs short. Still, the same merchants will scrape and bow and make blooming ldlots of them-selves every time one of these moneypower drones comes into their stores, and make a great fuse over them simply because they wear fine clothes and have plenty of ill-gotten wealth.

Sweet, Indeed, to those who in sickness and suffering have seen the advertisement of some sovereign remedy, which upon that trial has brought them from death's door. "The best thing I ever saw in my paper was the advertisement of Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery'" is again and again the testimony of those who have been healed by it of lung disease, bronchial affections, tumors, ulcers, liver complaints and the llis to which flesh

A CRACK SHOTA HOUSEHOLD WORD!

We trust we may not be thought too presumptive in claiming that HECHINGER'S is a household word throughout this entire section. Our reputation for giving our patrons Better Goods for less money than they can possibly get anywhere else is so firmly established that we can easily afford to pass unnoticed the frantic efforts and ill-natured remarks nowadays so common in the bombastic advertisements of the average ready-made clothing dealer. The facts remain undisturbed: that, owing to buying our material direct from the mills and importers, manufacturing the goods in our own house, making and trimming our garments equal to Custom work, and selling the best class of Tailor-made Clothing (many of them Silk and Satin lined) at prices you have to pay elsewhere for slop shop work, is the motive that brings the trade to our house.

We shall continue to notify the public, from time to time, of the arrival of our Summerwear Specialties. We are to-day showing a line of Woolen Coats and Vests, in light shades. that are the handsomest things out. They are confined to our house, yet the price on them is

NOT ALL PEACE BETWEEN THE FRENCH AND GERMANS.

A Belief That Hostilities Will Break Out During the Coming Summer-An Opera Suppressed by the French Government.

Death of a Novalist-Foreign Nava. Paris, May 7.—Paris has been much excited by the events on the frontier. The Behnasbels incident is only a small feature in the history of irritating troubles along the boundary line. Some of the most conservative of the English papers are beginning to think that the tension of feeling between France and Germany has become so great that actual hostilities may ensue during the summer. Although the French officials and the newspapers have been very moderate in tone, yet the people have been very much excited and are not showing the same self-control. It is now proposed in many French circles to proceed against the German resldents in Paris as an offset for the Schnaebeis

If the German courts should continue the trial against Schnaebels and render a judgment against him in contumacy, it is probable that the case against d'Eyrolies, the clerk who was recently dismissed from the French war office for furnishing information to the German gavernment, would be reopened and he would be prosecuted for treason. The irritability of the French has again been shown on the occasion of the production of Wagner's opera, "Lohengrin." This has been given during the last two evenings. It has been an artistle success. The musical critics and art lovers have been delighted with the opera, and it has obtained general praise. The lower classes of Paris however, have been very indignant. The audlence upon both nights has been hooted and pelted by the mob while making their way to the

The government had at first forbidden the production of this opera pending the settlement of the Schnaebels affair and only gave a reluctant consent after the latter had been released. The objection on the part of the authorities the production of the opera has been not so much on account of its authorship but rather for the opportunity which it afforded to the mob for anti-German demonstrations. Wednesday night's scenes about the Eden theater were more tunuituous than the night before. If the opera had been produced last night there would have been a great demonstration, and it is possible that the mob would have attacked the theater. The French government yesterday afternoon interposed by issuing an order that the opera should not for the present be given again so as to avoid the scenes of excitement which would otherwise inevitably have resulted.

In an Interview last night Premier Goblet told M. Lamoureaux that if he determined to continue "Lohengrin" the government would afford him every protection. The premier urged him, however, to withdraw the opera, promising that means would be adopted to enable him to recover any loss. He warmly thanked M. Lamoureaux for his sacrifice in the Interest of peace and quiet. International College Race.

LONDON, May 7. - As has already been announced, rowing men as well as yachtsmen are likely to be treated this summer to a contest between the best crews of the reprecentative universities of England and America. A race over the famous course on the Thames between Harvards eight and a picked crew from Cambridge university, will close the see an event that will make the summer of '87 memorable to sportsmen. Both Harvard and Cambridge are anxious to measure sweeps, and there is no reason why the rece will not be rowed early in September, except the possible contingency of the lack of funds. President Bristowe, of the University club, and stroke of the crew, who was seen by the and stroke of the crew, who was seen by the correspondent yesterday, who made a special trip from London to Cambridge for the purpose, voices the entire same of the English carsmen, and tage that nothing remains to perfect the arrangements for the race except the details of the trip and the raising of the necessary money. Harvard will do all that is possible to facilitate matters, and it is little less than certain that the Thames will see both erews contending for international Italy Asks an Explanation. Rose, May 7.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday, Signor Dezerbi gave notice that he would question the government respecting the action of the Spanish government in authorizing the formation of a coaling sta-tion on the Red Sea. The Italian authorities have asked Spain for an explanation. It is believed that the spot chosen for the station had already been claimed by Italy.
